

Turkey, Syria quake survivors struggle to stay warm, fed

AP ■ ANKARA

Thousands who lost their homes in a catastrophic earthquake huddled around campfires and clamoured for food and water in the bitter cold, three days after the tremor and series of aftershocks hit Türkiye and Syria, killing more than 19,300.

Rescuers continued their race to pull more people alive from the rubble, with the window closing to find trapped survivors.

While stories of miraculous rescues briefly buoyed spirits, the grim reality of the hardship facing tens of thousands who survived the disaster cast a pall. In the Turkish city of Antakya, dozens of people scrambled for aid in front of a truck distributing children's coats and other supplies.

Ahmet Tokgoz, a survivor, called for the government to evacuate people from the devastated region.

While many of the tens of thousands who have lost their homes have found shelter in tents, stadiums and other temporary accommodation, others have spent the nights outdoors since Monday's 7.8 magnitude quake.

"Especially in this cold, it is not possible to live here," he said. "People are warming up around campfires, but campfires can only warm you up so much. ... If people haven't died from being stuck under the rubble, they'll die from the cold."

Meanwhile, the first U.N. Aid trucks to enter rebel-held northwest Syria from Türkiye since the quake arrived Thursday morning.

Smaller aid organisations have sent in shipments, but the U.N. Is only authorised to deliver aid through one border crossing and road damage has prevented that thus far.

Winter weather and damage to roads and airports from the quake have hampered the response throughout a region already contending with the repercussions of more than a decade of civil war in Syria.

That conflict displaced millions of people within Syria and left many reliant on humanitarian aid, while also sending millions more over the border into Türkiye to seek refuge.

Some in Türkiye have complained the response was too slow.

Any perception that President Recep Tayyip Erdogan's government has mismanaged the crisis could hurt him at a time when he faces a tough battle for reelection in May.

Erdogan — who was scheduled to continue his tour of devastated areas on Thursday — has sought to play down the criticism.

Meanwhile, emergency crews on both sides of the border worked through the night to find survivors.

Experts said the survival window for those trapped under the rubble or otherwise unable to obtain basic necessities was closing rapidly.

At the same time, they said it was too soon to abandon hope. In the Turkish town of Elbistan, rescuers formed human chains as they dug through collapsed buildings, urging quiet in the hopes of hearing stifled pleas for help. But more and more often, they pulled out dead bodies from under the rubble.

The family of Havva Havam still hoped to see three of its members alive again, sitting by the fire opposite their former home, now the pile of debris.

Zelenskyy, in Brussels, urges EU to grant Ukraine membership

AP ■ BRUSSELS

President Volodymyr Zelenskyy said Thursday that "a Ukraine that is winning" should become a European Union member, arguing the bloc wouldn't be whole without his country being an integral part of the EU.

Zelenskyy made his comments during an address to the European Parliament on a rare trip outside Ukraine, which has been trying to repel a full-scale invasion by Russia for nearly a year. The Brussels visit came as Russia intensified its attacks in eastern Ukraine amid signs that a major new offensive by Moscow was underway before the February 24 anniversary of the war.

Zelenskyy, who also visited the UK and France on a whirlwind European tour that started on Wednesday, will already head home with heaps of goodwill and commitments of more military aid. He arrived to the European Parliament to rapturous applause, cheering and hoots from legislators, insisting in his plenary speech that Ukraine's fight against Russia was one fought for the freedom of Europe as a whole.

"A Ukraine that is winning is going to be member of the European Union," Zelenskyy said to applause, building his address around the common destiny that Ukraine and the 27-nation bloc face in confronting Russia head-on.

"Europe will always be, and remain Europe as long as we ... Take care of the European way of life," he said.

Zelenskyy added that Russia wants to destroy the European way of life, but "we will not allow that."

He held up an EU flag after his address and the entire legislature stood in sombre silence as the Ukrainian national anthem and the European anthem "Ode to Joy" were played one after the other. Zelenskyy then headed to the urn-shaped Europa building, where the 27 EU leaders were meeting in a summit, to push those same points.

Before Zelenskyy spoke, European Parliament President Roberta Metsola said allies should consider "quickly, as a next step, providing long-range systems" and fighter jets to Ukraine. Metsola said the response to Russian President Vladimir Putin's war against Ukraine "must be proportional to the threat, and the threat is existential."

Metsola also told him that "we have your back. We were with you then, we are with you now, we will be with you for as long as it takes."

EU leaders were hoping to impress on Zelenskyy that the powerful bloc is steadfast in its support for Ukraine as Russia is feared to be making moves for a new offensive.

The latest draft of the summit conclusions seen by The Associated Press says "the European Union will stand by Ukraine with steadfast support for as long as it takes." Military analysts say Putin is hoping that Europe's support for Ukraine will wane.

Zelenskyy: Ukraine intercepted plans to destroy Moldova

AP ■ BRUSSELS

Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy said Thursday that his country has intercepted plans by Russian secret services to destroy Moldova.

Speaking to European Union leaders in Brussels, Zelenskyy said he recently told Moldovan President Maia Sandu about the alleged scheme.

"I have informed her that we have intercepted the plan of the destruction of Moldova by the Russian intelligence," Zelenskyy said through a translator.

Zelenskyy said the documents showed "who, when and how" the plan would "break the democracy of Moldova and establish control over Moldova."

He alleged that the West backed the 2020 election of the pro-Western Sandu, claiming that she is eager to take the country into NATO, merge Moldova with Romania and "practically is ready for anything."

into a deadlock."

Ryabkov warned that the US and its allies must carefully assess the risks stemming from supplying increasingly powerful Western weapons to Ukraine.

"The Americans need to thoroughly and deeply weigh the risks linked to their unabashed ly cavalier course," he said.

Ryabkov noted that Moscow doesn't trust Western statements about self-imposed restrictions on a range of weapons supplied to Ukraine in order to avoid escalation, adding that such assurances in the past have served as cover for a steady

Earthquake stuns Syria's Aleppo even after war's horrors

AP ■ BEIRUT

For years, the people of Aleppo bore the brunt of bombardment and fighting when their city, once Syria's largest and most cosmopolitan, was among the civil war's fiercest battle zones. Even that didn't prepare them for the new devastation and terror wreaked by this week's earthquake.

The natural disaster piled on many human-made ones, multiplying the suffering in Aleppo and Syria more broadly.

Fighting largely halted in Aleppo in 2016, but only a small number of the numerous damaged and destroyed buildings had been rebuilt. The population has also more recently struggled with Syria's economic downside, which has sent food prices soaring and residents thrown into poverty.

The shock of the quake is all too much. Hovig Shehrian said that during the worst of the war in Aleppo, in 2014, he and his parents fled their home in a front-line area because of the shelling and sniper fire. For years, they moved from neighborhood to neighborhood to avoid the fighting.

"It was part of our daily routine. Whenever we heard a sound, we left, we knew who to call and what to do," the 24-year-old said. "But ... we didn't know what to do with the earthquake. I was worried we were going to die."

Monday's pre-dawn 7.8-magnitude quake, centered about 70 miles (112 kilometers) away in Turkey, jolted Aleppans awake and sent them fleeing into the street under a cold winter rain. Dozens of buildings across the city collapsed. More than 360 people were killed in the city and hundreds of others were injured. Workers were still digging three days later through the rubble, looking for the dead and the survivors. Across southern Turkey and northern Syria, more than 11,000 were killed.

Even those whose buildings still stood remain afraid to return. Many are sheltering in schools. A Maronite Christian monastery took in more than 800 people, particularly women, children and the elderly, crammed into every room.

"Until now we are not sleeping in our homes. Some people are sleeping in their cars," said Imad al-Khal, the secretary-general of Christian denominations in Aleppo, who was helping organize shelters.

For many, the earthquake was a new sort of terror — a shock even after what they endured during the war.

expansion of the assortment of arms deliveries. "We don't see any sign of reason in any of the NATO and EU members' capitals," Ryabkov said. "What they are doing isn't going to strengthen their security."

He rejected the US argument that Russia's refusal to allow the resumption of inspections of its nuclear facilities represents a breach of the New START treaty, the last remaining nuclear arms control pact between the two countries.

The New START treaty, signed in 2010 by President Barack Obama and Russian President Dmitry Medvedev, limits each country to no more than 1,550 deployed nuclear warheads and 700 deployed missiles and bombers. The agreement envisages sweeping on-site inspections to verify compliance.

Turkish leader acknowledges 'shortcomings' in quake response

AP ■ GAZIANTEP, TURKEY

The president of Turkey on Wednesday acknowledged "shortcomings" in his country's response to the world's deadliest earthquake in more than a decade as hope dwindled that more survivors would emerge from the rubble of thousands of toppled buildings.

With the confirmed death toll approaching 12,000, President Recep Tayyip Erdogan visited the especially hard-hit Hatay province, where more than 3,300 people died and entire neighborhoods were destroyed. Residents there have criticized the government's efforts, saying rescuers were slow to arrive.

Erdogan, who faces a tough battle for reelection in May, reacted to the mounting frustration by acknowledging problems with the emergency response to Monday's 7.8-magnitude quake but said the winter weather had been a factor. The earthquake also destroyed the runway at Hatay's airport, further disrupting the response.

"It is not possible to be prepared for such a disaster," Erdogan said. "We will not leave any of our citizens uncared for." He also hit back at critics, saying "dishonorable people" were spreading "lies and slander" about the government's actions.

Turkish authorities said they were targeting disinformation, and an internet monitoring group said access to Twitter was restricted despite it being used by survivors to alert rescuers.

मिशन, कैच द रेन और सही फसल अभियान आदि के माध्यम से कृषि के क्षेत्र में पानी के उपयोग को कम करने के लिये निरंतर प्रयास किये जा रहे हैं। लोकसभा में अधीर रंजन चौधरी के पूरक प्रश्न के उत्तर में जल शक्ति मंत्री गजेन्द्र सिंह शेखावत ने यह बात कही। चौधरी ने पूछा था कि क्या सरकार ने वर्चुअल वाटर ट्रेड पर संज्ञान लिया है? इसकी क्या चुनौतियां एवं अवसर हैं? इस पर शेखावत ने कहा कि भारत चीनी, चावल, कपास आदि का निर्यात करता है जिसके उत्पादन में काफी पानी का उपयोग होता है, ऐसे में यह परोक्ष रूप से पानी से जुड़ा होता है। कृषि के क्षेत्र में पानी के उपयोग को कम करने के लिये निरंतर प्रयास किये जा रहे हैं। इस सिलसिले में स्मार्ट सिंचाई, लघु सिंचाई, राष्ट्रीय जल मिशन, कैच द रेन और सही फसल अभियान आदि को बढ़ावा दिया जा रहा है।

अग्ने बढ़ा सकें। बीते करीब नौ साल में सरकार की वन्यजीव संरक्षण पहलों के बारे में पत्रकारों को जानकारी देते हुए सिंधिया ने कहा कि आने वाले महीनों में 14 से 16 और चीते भारत लाए जा सकते हैं। फिलहाल, सरकार चीता परियोजना के दूसरे चरण पर काम कर रही है और उसने दक्षिण अफ्रीका के साथ

समझौता किया है। चीतों को दक्षिण अफ्रीका से लाया जाएगा। चीता परियोजना के तहत, आठ चीतों को नामीबिया से हवाई मार्ग से भारत लाया गया था। पिछले साल सितंबर में प्रधानमंत्री नरेंद्र मोदी ने इन चीतों को मध्य प्रदेश के

कुनो पालपुर राष्ट्रीय उद्यान में छोड़ा था। नागरिक विमानन और इस्पात मंत्रालय का जम्मा सभालने वाले सिंधिया के मुताबिक, सरकार की वन्यजीव संरक्षण की रणनीति चार अहम स्तंभों पर आधारित है। जो आबादी, नीति, लोग और अवसरचना है। सिंधिया ने कहा कि समग्र नजरिया अपनाया गया है और विकास के साथ-साथ पशु मार्ग योजना के महत्व पर जोर दिया गया है। एक सवाल का जवाब देते हुए उन्होंने कहा कि प्रधानमंत्री ने पुनःचक्रित प्लास्टिक से बनी जैकेट पहनी थी और यह भी विश्व को एक संदेश है। सिंधिया ने कहा, मेरे पिता वन्यजीव संरक्षण में बहुत करीब से शामिल रहे थे और मैं बहुत युवा उम्र से ही वन्यजीव उत्साही रहा हूँ।
